

Regular Functions vs. Generator Functions

Regular Functions

Return a single, computed value

Each call generates a new local namespace and new local variables. Variables are thrown away on exit.

Generators

Return an iterator that will generate a stream of values

Local variables aren't thrown away when exiting a function – you can resume where you left off!

Simple Generator