```python
f = open("file.txt", 'w')
print(1 / 0)  # Crash!
f.close()
```

What if…?

```python
f = open("file.txt", 'w')
print(1 / 0)   # Crash!
f.close()
```

The file is never closed! That's bad!

Be Responsible: Use Context Managers