What's up with `*.pyc`?

CPython caches the byte-compiled modules (.pyc)

   Cached .pyc files live in `__pycache__/module.vers.pyc`

Automatically recompiled for newer source code

Same runtime speed, only faster loading speed

You can read more here!

Searching with Caches

Credit to PEP 3147